

Congratulations to the Pratt Medical Center Imaging Department on the Accreditation of their MRI.

What does Accreditation mean and why is it important?

- Your clinic has voluntarily gone through a rigorous review process to be sure it meets nationally accepted standards.
- The personnel are well qualified, through education and certification, to perform and interpret your medical images and assist in your physician's treatment.
- The equipment is appropriate for the test or treatment you will receive, and the facility meets or exceeds quality assurance and safety guidelines.

Now Accredited in MRI and Mammography
Job Well Done to Everyone
